I'm a college IT teacher, so I have the skills to structure, explain and visual show information in a clear and simple way. I also have a lot of experience in managing social accounts, creating content for it, etc. My superpower is my ability to simplify complex ideas, making it understandable. My experience as a college teacher and as a social media content creator helped me to get this skill. I am passion about exploring new technologies and discovering how they can improve our lives. I am also passion about education and believe that knowledge-sharing is a powerful tool for grows.
