About Me

Hello

I read for the last 6 years! You may like to look at my library records. I am willing to obtain an entry-level position, as a Researcher, Data Analyst, Writer, Editor, and proofreader, at a respected organization. To utilize the educational qualifications I've obtained from the different sciences I can rehearse philosophical argumentation, written or spoken, write criticism, or I can proceed with data and informational research from the web for a tutorial process or publication. My interest in Philosophy, PPLE, Social Sciences, literature, Arts, Theology, &c., proves helpful.

My pieces of information can support a database plan from some specific arks, that is over 3000 famous authors, and less than 10k of their digital works by now which mostly could be reshaped from their public domain stage.

I believe that I have a reasonable requisition to find all my adequacies; I have data, qualities, knowledge, and experience, as well as attitudes toward work. I am interdisciplinary, and up-to-date, working with AI for generation.

Professional Experience

Projects

Philosophical works

Some logical works are written during the last 8 years and I may find them enough to be introductory to the domain of their representation.

I like to publish my works, following the career of my life.

During my study I've developed enough information to draft 40-50 eBooks about Global Philosophy.

Other related niches

History, Literature, PPLE, Arts, Linguistics, Science, etc. From these I can develop my writings to the top.

Design and invention of Electrical lab equipment (independent project)

Dear advocate or promoter,

During the last 5 years, my study was followed by numerous influencers that I took advantage of making a rapport with in this experience. There are some individuals, that you may well know, to befriend or evaluate, for their behavior as well. And some of my personal interests and codes to enhance my stay.

I have a track record of achievements in the archive that wins several awards. You may find two groups of great authors or the name of a publication that covers several general works. I believe that the ontological utility of these works is credible.

The first subject of philosophy

Western Philosophy

Ancient philosophy:

- Presocratics
- Ionians
- Pythagorean
- Eleatics
- Atomists
- Older Sophists

Golden Age of Athenian Philosophy:

Platonism:

- Plato (+2/3 of works)*
- Aristotle (+2/3 of works)*

Epicureanism:

- Epicurus (survived works)*

Roman philosophy:

- A premiere general study.
- Lucretius *
- Cicero *
- Julius Caesar
- Marcus Aurelius *
- Seneca &c.

The Renaissance

Humanism

- Niccolo Machiavelli *

- Jacques Lacan
- Michael Foucault (main works, interviews)

Medieval philosophy:

Early Christian Thoughts:

- Saint Augustine

Middle Ages

Scholasticism:

- Thomas Aquinas

+ post-nicene fathers (some parts, reading....)

I am also familiar with concepts of monism and ritualism.

This is further clarified in other branches.

Before I begin the study of holy books, which became analytical for me, these above two authors were my reaction to initialise.

Rationalism

- René Descartes (+half of great works)*
- Baruch Spinoza
- Nicolas Malebranche
- Gottlieb Leibniz

Political philosophy:

- Adam Smith *
- Thomas Hobbes (1/4)*
- John Locke *
- Jeremy Bentham (Westminster Review +1/2)*

Chinese philosophy

Daoism:

- Laozi

Confucianism:

- Confucius *

Arabian philosophy

Sufism:

- Alī ibn Abī Tālib

Indian philosophy

- Buddhism
- Theology

Note:

I merely studied the texts in my access for a third time.

Some authors were at the top of their correspondence to work. I maintain some from general knowledge comparable to scholars or subsidiaries that emphasize some of the chief matters, for example, that one author can maintain 40 others related to itself.

Pictures, Videos, Channels, and Methods taken in my studies are various, but as much as I could over here.

Then I construed into postponement, from Modern to Contemporary
