about me

Power of words and being able to play with content king has made me to work as a copywriter, as an author trying to show the unseen and make the mortal immortal in literature, I desided to persuade people of what brands may offer to the customer, and drive with the target audience to take the action. As fallen apart pieces of word may not affect the world, In the strategy of content marketing process I gather the power of contents together for a goal. As digital marketer I also try to put the content in a right media platform in a right way and a right time to get all a brand wants to success.

Content marketing, social media marketing, SEO and finally copywriting are horses of my car to burn the asphalt to the success.
