

From my personal life experiences

Crisis has introduced and Re-introduced me to God

1: the first crisis I had, introduced me to God, though I was very young and naive. I was still in primary school

It happens that I had an accident, domestic Accident in our very own house(it has to do with fire), that period of time we were about starting our exams in school, when it happened I couldn't attend school let alone talk of writing my exams.

I was so ashamed of myself because the wound stinks and smell out loud, I watched my mother pray day after day, night after night, she had sleepless night throughout that period and I was also praying to God in my pains even though I haven't given my life to christ yet.

God is indeed a merciful God.

After my recovery I was given my exams to write and I was happy again

Afterwards I gave my life to christ by way of alter call in a program I attended.

2: my second crisis Re-introduce me to God.

It was my second semester exams ND 1

The exams was supposed to be after Christmas celebrations on 4th January

So I travelled back to 3days after the Christmas celebration in order to read properly for my exams

That very day I got to school I felt seriously sick

I was like God why now

When I have exams to write!!!

I cried in my pains praying in my heart for God to grant me strength to read for my exams

Fortunately for me

I regained my strength two days to the exams

After the results came out I was afraid I might have carry over in some courses, lo and behold

I did better than the previous semester then

I knew God has always been with me and will not put me to shame

God is indeed merciful
