

IMRAN KHAN: WHY THE NEW FACE RESISTANCE

The ousted prime minister is giving a tough time to the new government by giving one of the best resistance ever in history of Pakistan.

Months after being ousted from the parliament, the former prime minister of Pakistan, Imran Khan, is rewriting the new history of resistance in the country. Khan has convinced the majority of his countrymen that he was being ousted by a foreign conspiracy. Now, the people of Pakistan won't set back until they get Khan back to the prime minister's office.

In April 2022 the former prime minister was ousted from office through a no-confidence vote. "A foreign conspiracy has been planned to get me out of the office, because of independent foreign policy," said Imran Khan before being ousted from the office.

Photo: Imran Khan addressing a rally

Khan after being ousted did not sit back watching his countrymen fall into the wrong hands. He took his revolution (tsunami) to the streets. As he wanted free and fair elections.

On 25 May 2022, Mr. Khan and his followers rallied to Islamabad demanding free and fair elections, which, turned out to be a disaster in pain for his huge number followers. The protestors were met with tear gas, and rallies of policemen and rangers.

Khan ended the rally by giving six days of ultimatum to the new regime to announce general elections.

“I had decided that I will sit here until the government dissolves assemblies and announces elections, but of what I have seen in the past 24 hours, they (government) are taking the nation towards anarchy” said Imran Khan while giving a six days’ ultimatum.

Photo: Imran Khan addressing his Islamabad rally

After the whole scenario of the long march, Imran Khan showed his street power by winning Punjab bye-elections of 20 seats. Winning 15 of them. This showed clearly the popularity of Khan in the country.

After months of planning, hard work and dedication Imran Khan is still sitting behind, he’s still fighting for the welfare of his country. Imran Khan said at a rally in Karachi that “I don’t care if I lose my life during this struggle, but I won’t compromise on the dignity of this country”

Photo: Khan addressing nation

The ousted prime minister is at the peak of his political career at the moment. This may end in his favor or against his favor. But he's rewriting the history of Pakistan with his sheer resistance and struggle for his country's dignity. This Struggle might go down as one of the biggest in the history of Pakistan.